THE GRADUATING

EXERCISES HELD FRIDAY EVENING AT HIGH SCHOOL.

ADDRESS BY DR. JOHN

His Subject Was "What Next"—Eleven Members in the Class That Received Diplomas.

The mid-winter graduating class of the high school held its commencement exercises in the school auditorium Friday evening before an audience that appreciated every member of the class.

As the march for the class was being played by Mrs. Ralph Eversole, the graduates marched to the seats assigned them, led by the high school principal, Prof. Clyde Busby. Behind them were seated the now senior class, the high school faculty and the parents of the class members.

The invocation was given by Rev. Robert L. Finch, pastor of the First Christian church.

The vocal solo, "Toreador's Love Song," from "Carmen," by Bizet, by Rev. Gilbert S. Cox of the First Methodist church, was brilliantly executed, and the singer was forced to respond with an encore number.

Dr. John P. D. John of Greencastle, Ind., the affable, cultured, eloquent scholar and preacher, who is lecturing this week at the First M. E. church, was introduced by Rev. Cox as the speaker of the evening.

After the address to the class by Dr. John, a vocal number was given by Mrs. Paul Sawyers of St. Joseph, a sister of Miss Golda Roelofson of the class. Mrs. Sawyers has a soft, smooth mezzo-soprano voice, musical in tone and well cultivated. Her singing was well liked and she was called on for an encore. Her first number was "Good-bye, Sweet Day," and the encore piece "I Met a Little Elf Man."

The diplomas were presented by Mr. J. R. Brink, president of the school board, to Laura Lieber Craig, daughter of Mrs. Gallatin Craig; Miss Ruth Reuillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Reuillard; Miss Hazel Vandervoort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vandervoort; Miss Katherine Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Carpenter; Miss Isora Mutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mutz; Miss Golda Roelofson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Roelofson; Miss Edna Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Wilson of South Buchanan street; Miss Gladys Holt, daughter of Mrs. M. H. Holt; Fred Gerhart Vandersloot, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Vandersloot; Edgar Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hull, and Kirker Sawyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Sawyers.

The benediction was given by Rev. S. D. Harkness of the First Presbyterian church.

The class held quite a reception at the close of the program, as everyone and good wishes to them. It might not was eager to extend congratulations be out of the way to say here that the "sweet girl graduate" in cap and gown is just as sweet and attractive as ever—more so, in reality, for her general attractiveness is not overshadowed by billows of lace and ruffles and flowers. The cap and gown makes it possible for one to see just how sweet and pretty she is, and to behold manly dignity of the fine and splendid boy graduate. So here's to the cap and gown. May they ever be!

Dr. John gave his subject as "What Next?" entirely in keeping with the event of the evening. Addressing himself to the class, Dr. John said:

"The highest style of knowledge is to know what comes next. The highest style of wisdom is to do what comes next. An infallible answer to this question would demand a knowledge of every fact in the universe and a knowledge of the relation of each fact to all the rest. That is, it would require infinite knowledge to give an infallible answer to this question.

If one could always know what to do next he would never fail. The farmer would raise his crops in seasons wet or dry, hot or cold; the lawyer would never champion an unworthy cause, and he would never fail to secure justice for his client; the physician would never lose a curable patient; the toiler, skilled or unskilled, would always have food, raiment and home for his loved ones; the teacher would never be disappointed in his pupils, the student would always reach the goal of his ambition.

Now, while we cannot infallibly know what belongs next, it is the highest wisdom on our part to approximate

MISSOURI HEN DAY.

March 7 is the Day—What T. E. Quisenberry Says About It to the Readers of This Paper.

Missouri is the greatest poultry state in the Union. We admit it—and we are proud of it. A larger number of Missouri's citizens are engaged in poultry raising, either to a large or small extent, than are engaged in any other single industry. The value of the poultry and eggs produced in Missouri last year was greater than the value of Missouri's immense wheat crop, or of any other single product of farm, factory or mine.

The organization to which credit is largely due for the present magnitude of the poultry industry in Missouri is the Missouri State Poultry association. For nearly a quarter of a century this association has been a mighty power for the betterment of the industry. But there is still work to do. The poultry industry in Missouri is only in its infancy. There is yet vast room for growth and improvement. Profits might easily and quickly be doubled by a more general use of modern methods and practices.

There is a contagious enthusiasm and inspiration in concerted action which makes molehills out of mountains, and renders the impossible possible. It is with this thought in mind that Saturday, March 7, has been designated as "Missouri Hen Day." On that day the Missouri State Poultry association will launch a systematic and thorough educational campaign, in cooperation with the state poultry experiment station at Mountain Grove, which will extend into every county in the state. In order to properly carry on this work, as well as to promote the poultry industry locally, the members of the State Poultry association in each county will meet and organize a county branch of the State Poultry association.

In addition to organizing the county branches, the day will be devoted to a one-day membership campaign. As a special mark of appreciation, every member who secures five or more new members, will be presented one of the beautiful new gold and enamel State Poultry association pins, and the person who secures the most new members will receive a beautiful silver loving cup.

If you are "from Missouri" and, either through oversight or neglect, you are not now a member of the Missouri State Poultry association, send in your membership today and get ready to assist in the membership campaign, and in organizing your county branch. We want your help, your loyal support and co-operation. And in return we will help you, personally to make your work more pleasant, more profitable, more successful.

The membership fee is only 50 cents a year. Membership insures your securing all the books, bulletins, etc., issued by the state poultry experiment station, also a copy of the annual Year Book containing your name and address and the variety you breed. It also entitles you to compete for special prizes offered by the state poultry experiment station at the various poultry shows throughout the state. Send your membership fee either to Ralph Searle, state organizer, Mountain Grove, Mo., or to Fred Crosby, 3251 Gillham Road, Kansas City, Mo. Let us all resolve now to make Missouri Hen Day the greatest day in the history of the greatest industry in the greatest poultry state in the Union.

Yours in the interest of the Missouri hen, T. E. QUISENBERRY.

173 INDICTMENTS

BROUGHT IN BY THE GRAND JURY ON FRIDAY.

MANY ARE FOR GAMING

Two Women Indicted Appeared in Circuit Court Saturday—Only 61 Witnesses Up Before the Jury.

One hundred and seventy-three indictments! That many were brought in by the grand jury which has been in session since Monday. Of this number seventy-five were returned Friday morning and ninety-eight late Friday afternoon, when the grand jury reported that they had finished their work and received their discharge from the court.

Most of the indictments are for gaming and violation of the local option laws. They are scattered over the entire county.

There were only sixty-one witnesses that appeared before the grand jury, and the indictments returned are the largest number yet returned by any grand jury with so few witnesses.

Two who were indicted by the grand jury were brought in court Saturday morning. They were Flora Pollen and Lena Halley of Conception Junction, who are charged with selling intoxicating liquor. They are said to be conducting a rooming house at the Junction. The Pollen woman has two indictments against her and the Halley woman has four. They gave bond.

THE CLASS PROGRAM.

Given Friday Afternoon by the Graduating Class of the High School.

An excellent program was given at the high school auditorium Friday afternoon by the mid-year graduates, who are Laura Craig, Izora Mutz, Golda Roelofson, Ruth Reuillard, Edna Wilson, Hazel Vandervoort, Gladys Holt, Katherine Carpenter, Kirker Sawyers, Edgar Hull and Fred Vandersloot.

The program opened with a piano duet entitled "Silver Stars," which was excellently rendered by Miss Wilson and Miss Vandervoort.

Next on the program was a comical reading, "Mrs. Snodgrass Reads the Locals," by Miss Holt. And although her invisible husband repeatedly insisted that she read some more, nevertheless on account of the excellent delivery of the selection we are inclined to believe that she was reading the locals all the while.

The quartet, Miss Mutz, Miss Reuillard, Mr. Vandersloot and Mr. Hull, gave the beautiful selection "Forget Me Not." This was shown to be greatly appreciated by the hearty applause given them, and in response they gave a beautiful encore.

Mr. Sawyers gave the class eulogy, in which he told a number of great things, which the January class of 1914 had accomplished, and in these we believe he was right, for he met with hearty applause.

Miss Carpenter gave a most beautiful violin selection entitled "Belle Nuit," Hoffman. She is very accomplished in playing the violin and this selection was very much appreciated.

As is well known, the different graduating classes have been presenting frieze for the high school auditorium, the frieze given by this class being presented by Miss Craig, the president of the class. This now completes that portion of the frieze representing Alexander's triumphant entry into Babylon.

Principal Clyde Busby accepted the frieze in behalf of the high school, and announced that Miss Craig had won first honors, not only in the sixteen units required for graduation, but also in an extra unit of work. Miss Reuillard was awarded second honor.

The program was completed by "Cousin Timmy," a very comical play of two scenes. All acted their parts exceedingly well, and it was one of the best plays which has been given at the high school auditorium. The cast of characters was as follows:

Miss Bertha Aldernby, Miss Craig; Miss Bonnie Holland, a new student, Miss Mutz; Fudge Tootles, Bonnie's chum, Miss Roelofson; Stella Mayburn, a one-time favorite, Miss Reuillard; Reta, Edna Wilson; Mollie, Miss Vandervoort; Nellie, Miss Holt; Maggie Bings, the Maid, Miss Carpenter; Jonas Chroker, the gardener, in love with Maggie, Mr. Sawyers; Professor Timothy Addles, Mr. Hull.

FATALLY INJURED

FAY PUGSLEY, SON OF O. V. PUGSLEY, HAS SKULL CRUSHED.

Was on Wagon Load of Cobs and Head Was Caught Between End Gate and the Barn Door.

Fay Pugsley, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Pugsley, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon at the Pugsley home, nine miles northeast of Maryville.

The little boy had always delighted in following his father about his work and had climbed upon a wagon load of cobs, which the father had collected in the barn preparatory to hauling them out.

The outer barn door, which was low, would just have permitted the load to pass under, but when Mr. Pugsley, who stood outside the barn, started to lead the team forward, the boy's head was caught between the top of the end gate and the barn door, crushing his skull.

Medical attention was quickly summoned but to no avail, the boy dying last night at 11 o'clock.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at the home at 11 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. C. R. Green of the Harmony church.

Interment will take place in the Myrtle Tree cemetery.

REV. HALE AT HOME.

Baptist Pastor Returned Saturday Noon From Hannibal—102 Additions in Meeting.

Rev. Louis M. Hale of the First Baptist church returned Saturday noon from Hannibal, Mo., where he has been assisting his brother, Rev. George Hale, of the Fifth Street church, in a revival. He was joined at St. Joseph by Mrs. Hale, who had been in Blackwell, Okla., on a visit to her parents during his absence.

There were 102 additions to the church during the meeting at Hannibal, 91 of that number by conversion. The meeting was very quiet, a deep interest being manifest from the beginning.

Rev. George Hale will come to Maryville on Monday, February 16, to assist his brother in a meeting here, and he will be accompanied by Rev. Walker Alderton of Canton, Mo., who will direct the singing, as he did for the Hannibal meeting.

During Mrs. Hale's visit at Blackwell she was made to fill her old place at the Baptist church as organist during a meeting that was conducted by Mrs. Barcaser of Kansas City, who assists her husband in evangelistic work. The meeting was deeply spiritual and the church was thoroughly awakened. Mrs. Barcaser and her husband have directed the music for the southern Baptist convention for the past eight years. This is the largest body of Baptists that gather annually.

During her visit home Mrs. Hale was the honor guest of a reunion of the Phi Delta society of the Baptist college at Blackwell.

as nearly as possible to such knowledge; and the more earnestly we reach up to this unattainable plane of knowledge the more nearly we shall realize our best possibilities. We can never reach absolute perfection, but we may look toward it and strive for it, and the more steadily we look and the more earnestly we strive, the more nearly we shall achieve it.

The next thing for you to do is to learn how to find out your next opportunity and duty. You have partially learned this lesson in the preparatory work through which you have passed. You will more fully learn it in college. Before you unintelligently jump into a career, whether professional, commercial, mechanical, agricultural, or matrimonial, the one thing for you to do is to spend a few more years in a special training that will enable you to discern clearly the next duty, and that will give you skill and courage to meet it. I say confidently and emphatically that there is no environment that will more surely give you this discernment and skill than the environment of a reputable college.

The next thing for you to do is to complete a college course and thereby acquire a power that will more easily and surely enable you to discover the successive steps in your future career. You will always be learning what should come next, and, if you are earnest and sincere, the way will open, step at a time, into a career of usefulness and honor.

If there is no obstacle but poverty in the way of a college course for you, that is the strongest argument in favor of a college career. For your very poverty will call into exercise powers of your being that would otherwise have remained dormant.

If your excuse is poverty plus laziness, then go out and break stone at the roadside or tramp abroad over the land hunting for nothing to do. If it is poverty minus a high ambition and an indomitable purpose, keep as far away from college as possible, for you would be out of your element in a college atmosphere. But if your plea is poverty plus an unquenchable yearning for your highest possibilities, then count your poverty a blessing instead of a hindrance, for the efforts that you make to overcome your adverse surroundings will reappear in a sturdiness of character and a wealth of achievement that would have been impossible on a plane of ease and luxury. I could fill this address with instances that have come under my own observation in which poverty, instead of being a stumbling block, was a stepping stone.

Your objection to a college is probably this: Many men have risen to the highest positions of trust in our country who have never attended college; and particularly in commercial life the majority of successful men have not been college graduates. Beside, you can quote high authorities in the business world who maintain that a college training is a disadvantage to a young man entering business.

If the college graduate proposes to substitute his Latin, Greek, philosophy, science and literature for experience, then these conclusions are correct. If the college man proposes to begin on top, simply because he has a college degree, then to that extent his degree is a curse to him instead of a blessing.

If the graduate from the agricultural college insists that he should ignore the elementary details of farming, and simply ride over the fields on his steam plow, or direct the threshing machine by telephone, he will be a failure as a farmer. But if he will take his college training and begin at the very bottom and work up through all the grades of agricultural life, he will leave all his untrained competitors far behind. The very best and most successful farmers in our land are graduates of our agricultural schools. So it is in every line of occupation. A man must begin at the bottom of it and work up if he would be a success.

After the meeting the members were invited to the home of Mrs. J. H. Thorp, where a surprise party was given her mother, Mrs. C. W. Thorp, it being her seventy-third birthday. The Homemakers presented her a beautiful blooming plant. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her husband and daughter, Mrs. Will Mann. Those present were Miss Ella May King, Mrs. John Rickman, Mrs. N. F. Humber, Mrs. W. F. Truett, Mrs. Solon Clark, Mrs. Farrar, Mrs. E. B. Sheldon, Mrs. M. A. Peery and daughter, Louise; Mrs. J. C. Seal, Mrs. L. Dawson, Mrs. Funk, Mrs. J. S. Muntz, Mrs. Del Thompson, Mrs. Lydia Wilkerson.

Studied Lucia di Lammermoor.

The Opera club, comprised of the members of Miss Alma Nash's students in mandolin and guitar, held its first meeting at Miss Nash's studio, on South Buchanan street, Friday evening. Various members of the club discussed the following questions relating to Donizetti's opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor." What is the difference between light opera and grand opera? Pronunciation of words. Who wrote the text? The story was derived from what novel? The music of the opera was written by whom? When and where was the first production given? Name the characters. How many acts and scenes in the opera? What is the name of the sextette? What is the name of the sextet? What has some of the critics said concerning this opera? Miss Nash then briefly told the story of Lucia di Lammermoor, after which the string orchestra gave the following selections: "Think Not This Heart Can Alter," "Tho' to Heaven From Sorrow Flying," "What Restrains Me" (sextet). After the program the club enjoyed a social hour at Miss Nash's home, where light refreshments were served, and she gave three numbers from the evening's study on the victrola: "The Mad Scene," first by Tetrazzini, and second by Melba, the latter being the favorite singer o fthe club, and the sextet by Sembrich, Caruso, Scotti, Journet, Severina and Daddi. Miss Nash was assisted in her social duties by Misses Edna and Esther Dietz and Elizabeth Nash.

Surprised on Birthday.

Mrs. Joseph Pfeiffer, of Conception Junction, invited the Social Hour club of which she is a member, to be her guest at Costello Hall Thursday evening. It became known among the members of the club that the day was Mrs. Pfeiffer's birthday anniversary and by enlisting the assistance of Mr. Pfeiffer, arrangements were made for a much larger company than Mrs. Pfeiffer had bidden. A few of the invited guests came early, while the others gathered at an agreed point and went in a body to the hall, where Mrs. Pfeiffer received them, just double the number planned upon. Punch was served the company by the son and daughter of the host and hostess, Fannie and George Pfeiffer, and they also punched the tally for the games at high five. Pink and white made a pretty color scheme for the punch, the tally cards and luncheon. The first prize to the lady making the highest score was a silver butter knife, and went to Mrs. R. L. Fisher. The gentlemen's prize, a flashlight, went to A. Nelson, after he had played a single handed game with Joseph B. Williams, Phil Growney and the host of the evening, who were tied for the honors. The consolation prizes, a doll and a toy horse with a bell on it went to Mrs. A. M. Schafer and E. L. Lewis. The guests of the evening presented Mrs. Pfeiffer a silver gravy ladle. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. T. Daley, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Costello, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Schafer, Mr. and Mrs. James Farmer, Fred Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitzsimmons Mr. and Mrs. Henry Toel, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Will Vandeventer, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Danger Signals.

We are sometimes told that headache, giddiness, pains in the region of the spine, weak digestion and a host of similar complaints are preliminary signs of oncoming breakdown. Yet, while they often accompany the latter condition, they are also significant of many other ailments, which have nothing to do with it.

The fact that we suffer from any one of them does not imply that we are threatened with a breakdown. For all that, it is not well to neglect these complaints, for it is certain that if we have any tendency to nervous trouble they will hasten it on.

One thing it is necessary to emphasize. If any symptom of this sort—and the remark applies especially to headaches—is found consistently to come on during the hours of work, alleviating after work is over for the day, it should be taken as a danger signal, for when any one's occupation brings on a headache the complaint is much more likely to be due to some weakness of the nervous system than to any fault in digestion or eyesight. And the same applies to many other symptoms also.

UNDESERVED GLORY.

Father Thought the Burglar He Tackled Was Young Mr. Staylate.

Mrs. Jimson was aroused from her slumbers by Mr. Jimson springing violently out of bed. Before she could say a word he had pulled on his dressing gown and slippers and had made for the door.

"What on earth are you going to do, Henry?" she asked.

"I'm going to jolly well put a stop to that young fellow staying here till all hours of the night. Listen to him now!"

"Henry, don't go; don't go!" whispered his wife hoarsely. But Henry was already halfway down the stairs. In another few minutes she heard the sounds of a frightful struggle going on. Glass crashed to the ground, and chairs were overturned. Then somebody dragged some one else to the front door, kicked him down the steps and slammed it to again.

Then Mr. Jimson, very much out of breath, but highly pleased with himself, once more entered the room.

"Oh, Henry, how brave you are!" murmured his wife admiringly.

"Why, how's that?"

"Oh, Henry, it was a real burglar at last!"

Henry turned pale.

"My word!" he said. "And I thought it was Mabel's young man!"—London Answers.

A Skeptic.

An obstinate old Daytonian who was looking up one still afternoon at the Wright biplane circling smoothly and steadily through the air said: "When people first told me about this here flyin' I called 'em liars. Then when I read about it in the papers I said it was a fake." The old man, watching the biplanes moving in great curves like lazy birds, shook his head thoughtfully. "By crinus!" he said. ABOUT THE WEATHER BUREAU.

How They Forecast Storms, Frosts and Floods.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—Many people have an idea that there is something mysterious and occult about the work of the weather bureau in forecasting the coming of storms, frosts and floods. Not a few think that the observers must necessarily get their data by reading the planets, the stars and the moon. As a matter of fact the forecaster of the bureau foretells the coming of disturbances in a business-like way, very similar to that in which a man who has ordered a shipment of goods would estimate the date of its arrival.

Suppose a business man had ordered a carload of pineapples from the Hawaiian Islands. He would know the average time it would take the steamer to make the trip to the Pacific port, the average time for unloading and loading into refrigerator cars, and the average number of days to be allowed these cars for their trip across the continent to New York. His estimate, however, would be subject to error, because the steamship might be delayed by fog, or the cars might meet with an accident.

Storms, like pineapples, as a rule do not originate in the United States. They come to us, some from the Philippines, Japan, Siberia, Alaska, Canada or the Gulf of Mexico. The weather bureau gets cable, telegraphic or wireless notice of a foreign storm. Station after station, or vessel after vessel reports the storm's arrival in its neighborhood, so that the general direction and rate of progress can be determined very early. In fact, the arrival of some storms can be foretold ten days in advance.

The forecasters watch for the region of low barometer which is the storm center around which the wind blows. This whirl or eddy moves bodily forward with the general eastward drift of about 650 miles a day in our latitudes. As the lines of equal pressure (isobars) around the low center crowd closer together, the winds attending the storm increase in force. The forecaster determines the direction of movement of the storm and its velocity.

When weather disturbances are reported, the forecasters know from experience about how long it takes them to reach our Pacific coast, and then how long after they will reach the Atlantic coast. For example, if a storm coming from Siberia drifts eastward around the north pole and reappears in Alaska, it should appear in Washington and Oregon in about two days; should get to the great lakes in six days and to the Atlantic coast in seven or eight days.

Unexpected conditions may delay storms or divert them from the straight track just as a refrigerator car may be thrown off its schedule or be shipped by accident on a wrong road. Some of these storms deplete themselves by running into regions of high barometer which are of greater magnitude and extent than the storm itself. Some of them, however, travel completely around the world.

To keep tab on cold waves that come into the United States from Canada and Alaska, the weather bureau studies the Canadian weather reports. England sends reports from Iceland, the British Islands and Continental Europe, and daily reports come from St. Petersburg on the conditions in Russia and Siberia.

The same business-like system used in tracing the track of a storm is applied in determining the arrival of frosts.

Flood forecasts are made in much the same way. Information as to the amount of rainfall at the headwaters of streams that cause floods are covered by telegraphic reports sent by local observers. As this rain reaches the main channel, the height of the water in the channel is determined by successive gauging stations. Past records establish how much a height, say of 20 feet at Dubuque, Ia., will produce at Davenport, another station eighty miles down the Mississippi. This plan is followed all the way down the river, and at each point full allowance is made for the effects of water from tributaries, and from additional and local rainfall. As a result of these observations in the recent flood, the people of Cairo had warning a week or ten days in advance. The Pittsburg district can be given only twelve to twenty-four hours' notice, because a flood is upon them within twenty-four hours after a heavy rain storm.

CROY ON WORLD TOUR

Starts This Week—His First Novel Will Appear in the Spring

The University Missourian of Columbia had the following about Homer Croy, the former Maryville boy, Friday

Homer Croy, humorist and author, and one time student at the University of Missouri, will leave New York this week for a hike around the world in the interest of Leslie's Weekly. Croy is an associate editor of the Leslie-Judge publications. He had planned a visit to Missouri before departing upon this long hike, but in a letter to Rex Magee, editor of the Savitar, for whom he has written a special story on "Attending a Read Hall Dance," Croy announced that he would leave on this journey this week. He wrote:

"I leave this week for my hike around the world. I will be back through Missouri and will try to get down to Columbia, although I am not sure that I will make it. However, I will spit on my hands.

"Yours till the last split skirt is sewed up."—

Croy's first novel will appear in the spring. It is a humorous novel, "When to Lock the Stable," which has been accepted by Bobbs-Merrill Company. The scene is laid in Maryville, Mo., Croy's native town. When the publishers of Croy's novel wrote him for a history of himself, this is what they received:

"Certainly I can tell you about myself—I have so lived that I can tell any publisher about myself.

"I was born of a popular brand of parents—poor, but honest—in a small town in Missouri—a town of 5,000 souls and a water tower.

"My first job was working on the local paper. I received $3 a week—every week, rain or shine. I was the best leg reporter that the paper ever had. I could walk farther and ask more questions getting a two-line local than any other person ever employed on the paper. The first two weeks about the only stories I turned in were happenings in my family. My father couldn't shut the front door without having it in the paper.

"One day the editor called me in and said, "I'm afraid I will have to dispense with your services—there aren't enough Croy's taking the paper to make retaining you profitable.'

"Taking the hint I resigned.

"When I got through college I went to the Jamestown Exposition and got a job managing a wild man show but the wild man struck for more money so I went over to Newport News and started for Cuba with sixty-five cents in my pocket.

"They found me the second day out and put me to passing coal, but I persuaded the captain that my talent lay in another line so he set me to work in the steam galley washing dishes. This was more congenial, as I had to wash dishes only thirteen hours a day. The rest of my time was spent reading, writing and in other quiet amusements. I tried to escape at Havanna, but they had thought of that and kept me on the brig.

"When I got back to Newport News I still had fifty cents in my pocket. With that I came back to St. Louis and got a job on a paper filling fire buckets and doing morgues. The editor said that he thought I was gifted in this line, but I did not know which field he meant. The home paper spoke of it as 'a lucrative position' and said that I was to be congratulated, but my room mate said, 'But what about the paper?'

"When they found that they could get along without me I came to New York and got a job with a press agent. My principal duty consisted of telling him when to duck out of the side door. One morning when I came down there were half-a-dozen anxious looking men standing on the outside pounding the door and trying to get in. However, I lost only part of the week's salary.

"Then I got a job on a magazine and pretty soon founded one of my own.

"Personally, I am tall—six feet two, with a high backward forehead. It is getting more backward each year. It won't be long until it can be seen by the people in the row behind.

"It came easy enough for me to write "When to Lock the Stable." The idea kept buzzing around in my head for some time. The scene is located in the town I was born in and I knew in real life every character in the book.

"My favorite character in the book is Brassy, the hog cholera man. A lot of people have asked me why I give so much space to a man who sold hog cholera, and I say, 'Because I like him.'

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

r local applications, as they cannot reach the iseased portion of the ear. There is only one ay to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Bedspread of Many Colors.

A bedspread that surely rivals Joseph's coat of many colors, is on display in the window of the Maryville Furniture company's store. It is the property of Lee O'Grady, and is made of miniature rugs that came wrapped around cigarette packages solicited by him from his friends. There are 180 of them, and they represent the flags of many nations and the pennants of many colleges, school and universities, in the most beautiful aggregation of color one could well see together. They are joined into a handsome bedspread. by Mr. O'Grady's sister, Miss Ella O'Grady He was only six weeks gathering the number together.

MINERS EXPEL "SPY" UNION

West Virginia Local Ousted by Indianapolis Couvention.

TOOL OF DETECTIVE AGENCY.

National Body Votes to Further Campaign for Federal Old Age and Mother's Pension and Liability and Compensation Laws.

Indianapolis, Jan. 24.—Local union No. 979 of Pocahontas, W. Va., was expelled by the convention of the United Mine Workers on charges that it was an organization maintained by a detective agency for the purpose of "getting a spy into the convention." M. D. Whitesell, the delegate accredited to the union, was not present when the action was taken.

The attack on the union was started by A. R. Watkins of Yorkville, O., an international board member, who asserted that it was dangerous for a union miner to appear in the neighborhood of Pocahontas.

"Show the spy to us and we'll take care of him," shouted Thomas Cairns of Charleston, W. Va., president of the district in which Pocahontas is located. The resolution to expel the union from the organization was adopted unanimously amid cheers.

The convention voted to further a campaign for federal old age and mothers' pension laws and for liability and compensation laws.

Carpenters employed in and abuot the mines must give up their membership in the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and affiliate with the miners, according to a resolution adopted. William O. Green, international secretary-treasurer, announced that steps looking to this action were taken at the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Seattle.

Carpenters Agreed.

He said the miners' officials had conferred with the carpenters' officials in Seattle and that the carpenters had agreed to the change. It was pointed out that since the miners had taken a stand for industrial unionism, it was the duty of the miners to include every workman employed about the mines in their organization.

The question of the consolidation of the United Mine Workers of America with the Western Federation of Miners was brought up, but postponed until the fraternal delegates from the metal miners could be heard. Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation, is expected to attend the convention later.

SCHMIDT JURY CAUTIONED

Juror Receives Anonymous Letter and Turns it Over to Judge.

New York, Jan. 24.—Because someone has been writing anonymously to jurors in the case, Justice Vernon M. Davis of the supreme court, before whom Hans Schmidt, a former priest charged with the murder of Anna Aumuller, is on retrial, again cautioned jurymen against discussing the case with anyone and requested them not to read newspapers or communications relative to the crime.

Justice Davis took this action after one of the jurors had handed him a letter, postmarked Brooklyn, signed "A Citizen," in which was made what the justice characterized as an able medical argument dealing with the Schmidt case. Whether it was for or against the defendant the justice would not state.

To Fix Power of Commission.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Edward E. Hines, special attorney for the interstate commerce commission, left here for Washington to prepare a petition to the federal court that will establish one of the most important precedents ever put in effect to fix the powers of the commission to force answers from unwilling witnesses. The commission's petition to Federal Judge Landis to compel F. W. Ellis, vice president of the Armour Refrigerator Car lines, to answer questions in the rate hearing here, will be filed Tuesday. Mr. Hines said he expected immediate action on it.

Ate Himself Into Navy.

Kansas City, Jan. 24.—Just because he happened to be shy three and a half pounds to become an apprentice musician in the United States navy was no hindrance at all to Norman Francis Steurdevant, twenty years old, of Alva, Okla. He drank and ate the required weight and another half pound for good measure, returned to the naval recruiting office in the federal building an hour later and was sworn in as a sailor by Lieutenant Abbott.

Vaccinate St. Louis Street Car Men.

St. Louis, Jan. 24.—Seven thousand employees of the United Railways company have been vaccinated because some of their members have smallpox. Guests at a fashionable hotel and students in a local business college also were vaccinated.

Women Jeer Strike Breakers.

St. Louis, Jan. 24.—More than a hundred young women gathered about one of the factories of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe company and jeered the men and women who went in to work. Three men were arrested on a charge of inciting the women to riot.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

Expansion in General Business Not Entirely Uniform.

New York, Jan. 24.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says:

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: While there is tangible evidence of continued expansion in general business the betterment is not entirely uniform. Advices from leading centers are rather mixed, yet favorable reports outnumber those of an opposite character and sentiment is more confident.

In the important iron and steel industry the belief is strengthened that the turning point has about been reached, although it is not expected that the recovery from previous depression will be rapid. Labor, however, is more fully employed, mill operations have increased and even if there has been no advance in prices, further concessions are not so frequent. The former policy of the railroads in holding back contracts is somewhat less pronounced and orders and specifications are coming forward with greater freedom than heretofore.

Kidnaper of Incubator Baby Pardoned.

Topeka, Jan. 24.—F. H. Tillotson, a detective, who in 1909 kidnaped Marion Bleakley, the famous "incubator baby," was pardoned by Governor Hodges. He was under sentence of from one to five years in the Kansas penitentiary, but was at liberty on bond pending a hearing of an appeal to the United States supreme court. Tillotson took Marion from the home of a relative of Mrs. Lottie Bleakley in Topeka, Kan., and brought the child to Kansas City, where he gave Marion to Mrs. James B. Barclay of Moline, Ill. Mrs. Barclay and Mrs. Bleakley were fighting in the courts for the child's possession.

Italian Bankers Are Murdered.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 24.—Disinclination of Italians to give information to the police is hampering the detective department in its efforts to identify the murderer of Anthony Puccio and Rossio Dispensea, Italian bankers, who were shot to death in front of a saloon they had just purchased. A third man was wounded, but fled.

GOETHALS WILLING TO HEAD N. Y. POLICE

Mitchel Will Take Steps to Meet Conditions or Engineer.

Panama, Jan. 24.—Colonel George Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, recently was tendered the position of police commissioner of New York city by Mayor Mitchel, and in reply to the letter sent him by the mayor, through George W. Perkins, signified his willingness to accept the post under certain conditions. These conditions were that he should be permitted to remain on the isthmus until the canal is completed and in successful operation and that he be given complete control over the police department.

Colonel Goethals said that under no circumstances would he accept the commissionship unless these conditions were agreed to. He added that as he would still be an army officer, after his work here was completed, he would not resign in order to accept Mayor Mitchel's offer, but that he would take the position if President Wilson gave his permission to retire.

Colonel Goethals insisted that he must have complete control over the police department in case of his acceptance.

To Try to Meet Conditions.

New York, Jan. 24.—Mayor Mitchel, in announcing that he had obtained from Colonel George W. Goethals a qualified acceptance of an offer of the New York police commissionership, made it known that he would at once take steps to meet the conditions laid down by the Panama canal builder.

CHARGES STIR SPEER

Judge Rises and Attempts to Address Probing Committee.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 24.—Reiteration of charges that Federal Judge Emory Speer was mentally unbalanced and showed favoritism in deciding cases before his court, brought Judge Speer to his feet with a vigorous protest at the hearing before the congressional committee investigating allegations against the jurist's official conduct.

"Your honors," Judge Speer exclaimed, "if you please, I have sat quietly here and listened to misrepresentations which have been heaped upon me——"

Chairman Webb interrupted to insist that the judge allow his counsel to conduct his case.

PRISONER FLEES OVER LINE

"Treats" Captor to Dinner, Leaving Him to Pay Bill.

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 24.—Jack Wilson, prisoner on a charge of stealing arms and ammunition from the camp of the Fifth United States cavalry last May, treated his captor, United States Deputy Marshal Charles R. Price of Phoenix, to a dinner here. When the two finished eating, Wilson dodged out the back door of the restaurant and ran across the international boundary, 200 feet away. Price was left to pay the bill and mourn the sad ending of his first arrest.

Indian Mistakes Boy's Cries.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Jan. 24.—His cries being mistaken for the wailing of coyotes indirectly resulted in the death of the four-year-old son of the Rev. E. J. Lindsay, who lives near the Pine Ridge Indian reservation. The boy had wandered away from home. His body was found. He had frozen to death. It was a Sioux Indian who mistook the boy's cries for that of coyotes.

TRUST BILLS ARE OPEN TO CHANGE

Legislative Program as Already Outlined Not Last Word.

MAY BE ALTERED OR EXTENDED

Interstate Trade Commission Measure Will Be Taken Up Next Week by House Committee—Plans for Hearings Considered.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The tentative anti-trust bills are not the last word in the proposed remedial legislation to regulate big business. That the measures may be altered or extended was emphasized in both branches of congress and the president let it be known he did not consider the forms of the bills drafted closed.

Pursuant to the purpose of administration leaders to exhaust the subject, it was determined by the house judiciary and senate interstate committees not to introduce at this time the measures relating to interlocking directorates prohibition, definitions or restraint of trade and specification of "cutthroat" competition. Hearings on the question are to be held before the bills go to congress.

The interstate trade commission bill will be taken up next week by the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, which may see fit to alter the provisions suggested by the judiciary subcommittee and Senator Newlands, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Not to Be Framed for While.

The fifth of the proposed bills, that to authorize federal regulation of railroad securities, probably will not be drawn for several weeks. As a basis for this measure, however, a bill introduced by Representative Adamson (Ga.) probably will be taken.

Plans for the hearings now are engaging the attention of the legislative leaders. Representative Clayton called a meeting of the judiciary committee today to determine upon a course of procedure. When the Democrats of the senate interstate commerce committee met to discuss the subject, the suggestion was made that hearings should be conducted jointly by house and senate committees in order to expedite hearings of the bills. This idea received little encouragement, however, from the house leaders in charge of the anti-trust program. Democrats of the senate interstate commerce committee were inclined to insist that all the trust measures be referred to them when the bills are introduced in the upper branch.

Exchange Views.

Representatives Clayton, Carlin and Floyd of the judiciary subcommittee conferred with Senator Newlands and other Democrats of the interstate commerce committee.

"We are exchanging views," said Representative Carlin, "going over the bills with a view to determining where they may be improved and to insure harmonious action upon any changes that may be suggested."

Members of both committees after discussing the question of making the bills party measures through caucus action expressed the hope that it would not be necessary to handle them in this way, as was done with the tariff and currency bills. In this connection, Senator Newlands pointed out that all minority members would be given an opportunity to participate in deliberations on the bill at hearings and through consultation with the committees.

INTERNAL REVENUE REPORT

Some Tobacco and Whisky Used Last Year in America.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The American people drank 70,000,000 gallons of whisky, smoked 4,090,300,000 cigars and puffed 8,711,000,000 cigarettes during the six months ending Dec. 31, according to figures announced by Commissioner Osborn of the internal revenue bureau.

The revenue collected from distilled spirits amounted to $85,862,712, the whisky tax being $16,142,854; tobacco, $41,296,593; corporation tax, $3,110,720; cigarettes, $10,890,000, and cigars, $12,270,000.

The total collection of taxes for the six months totalled $167,647,905, an increase of $4,175,630 over the corresponding period of 1912. The income tax paid under the new law aggregated $1,509. This tax did not have to be paid until March 1.

German Chancellor Assails Socialists.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The Socialist deputies in the German imperial parliament were bitterly assailed by the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, when they asked him questions in connection with the acquittal by court-martial of the German army officers connected with the recent incidents between military and civilians at Zabern, Alsace. The chancellor told the Socialist representatives they were the underminers of the throne and preachers of republicanism.

Marysville Drys to War.

Marysville, Mo., Jan. 24.—As a result of a verdict of a coroner's jury, finding that Mrs. Thomas G. Riffle came to her death through being frightened by a drunken man, a mass meeting was held at which money was subscribed to suppress the sale of liquor here.

Painted the Church Building.

N. B. Shrewsbury, J. D. Tarpley, F. C. Kelly, W. D. McDonald, W. A. Reed and Rev. J. F. Patton met at Centenary church, near Skidmore, last Thursday and gave the side walls of the church a second coat of paint. They made coffee and served their own dinners and had just a dandy good time. The others ate too much, but the pastor saved himself for a Sunday dinner, since he is to eat in the Centenary neighborhood that day.
